This “terrier” is a fragment of a reconnaissance for the noble fief of Vulliens. The inventory of the ACV notes that the manuscript has been bound out of order, and that significant portions have been lost, based on the original folio numbers. The digitized version gives the images in the correct order. Large sections are missing, including fols. 1-120v, 158-169v, 240-240v (probably just a numbering error), and 243-254v. The original volume ran to at least 264 folios. ACV gives the names of the commissaires as Ludovicus Challeti, Perretus Gaudini, and Jacobus Gaudini. A quick comparison of some of the items indicates Fn 64 and Fn 65 are both copies of the same original “quernet” by these commissaires, differing mainly in spellings. Fn 65 has the advantage of being complete, apparently. The date of this reconnaissance in Fn 65 is explicit, 15 nov 1531 Style of the Nativity.

The text of Fn 64 begins well into the body of the reconnaissance, but the name of the reconnoissant is mentioned several times, and later marginal notations give the names of some of the censiers. The surviving text here in Fn 64 includes neither the beginning nor the end of the reconnaissance.

The text uses classical spellings, suggesting that the document may be a later copy, but the script is quite small and often rather vague. We use the medieval spellings (e.g., suppressing the æ) for simplicity. The script of the surviving text through fol. 193v is unusual, to the extent that the distinctions between many letters are obscure at best, particularly ligatures following the letter e. This scribe, however, seldom abbreviates unless running out of space at the end of a line, and uses punctuation liberally – to the extent that there are many completely unnecessary commas (“pro, et super, rebus...”), but clearly setting off the components of each description of property and complicated joint tenancies.

At fol. 194, the script changes, but the spellings and punctuation do not. Apparently, there were at least two clerks working on this volume, with precisely the same training. The second script is much less ambiguous.

The folio numbers and the corresponding image numbers from the www.familysearch.org web site are:

1-120v are missing

121-157v: images 8-81 (section for Chavannes starts on fol. 150v, image 67)

158-169v are missing (thus, about 12 folios of the section for Chavannes have been lost)

170-239v: images 82-221 (Chavannes continues, Thierrens starts at fol. 182v, image 107)

240-240v are missing (possibly just a numberin error)

241-242v: images 222-224
243-254v are missing
255-264v: images 226-245
265-end are missing

Perhaps the main significance of Fn 64 for our purposes is that it demonstrates that certain properties at Chavannes-sur-Moudon were, circa 1531, still part of the fief of Vulliens.

121 ... various properties at Vulliens : censiers as noted in the text : heirs of Petrus Bublex de Vulliens, heirs of Stephanus Bugnat ? of Vulliens, heirs of Stephanus and Mermetus sons of Perrerus Pictez of Vulliens, heirs of Agnes Fumay ? wife of Ugo Menistrerii ? , heirs of Mermetus Pichouz of Vulliens.

130 ... various properties held by Aymo de Gebennis, including furnus ipsius loci de Vulliens, molendinum etc., other properties now in his own hands, feudal rights and jurisdiction over his subjects at Vulliens.

132 Item, et generaliter quidquid ipse prefatus Nobilis Aymo de Gebennis miles confitens tenet et tenere poset quovis modo in villa, territorio, fenagia, et confinibus ipsius loci de Vulliens a quidquid supra nominata domine Isabella et Margareta de Vulliens per se vel alium in dicta villa, territorio, et confinibus predict loci de Vulliens alias tenebant. (Thus, the missing introduction to this reconnaissance or quernet must have described something of the history of these fiefs.)

132v ... properties and rights at Vullienjaux

133v ... censiers at Vullienjaux : Claudius Monney de Escublens, heirs of Petrus Belchat, heirs of Joannes Goudard de Vulleinjaulx seu nunc per Claudium Gilliard, Petrus filius quondam Girardi Goudard de Vullienjaux seu per dictum Claudium Gilliard, proboshomines de Vullienjaulx, Nobilis Bartholomeus de Pré dominus de Corselles, for the dîme of Vullienjaux formerly held by Nobilis Franciscus de Fernay, and the direct dominium quidquid Domina Ysabella eiusdem quondam Domini Francisci de Fernex mater, et Domina Margareta eius soror tenebant 12 aug 1364 apud Vullienjaulx et in territorio dicti loci quibus die et anno dicta Domina Ysabella recognovit predicta tenere de feudo bona memoria Domini Amedei Sabaudia comitis, ut in extentis precedentibus continetur. (The date is from some previous terrier, not yet identified.)

135v ... properties at Seppey.

136v ... and at Bressonnaz. Censiers include : Claudius filius quondam Petri Gres de Brissonaz (properties enumerated for Claudius Gres begin on fol. 137, continuing to fol. 139; some of the adjacent properties are subject to the Cerjat or to the Abbey of Hautcrêt, also this Claudius Gres holds some properties at Nardyns, formerly held by Jaquetus Muricyer or Murisier and others), Petrus Rolaz (Rollaz) alias Milliard de Nardens et Joannes filius quondam Gabrielis Limat, Humbertus Clotz de Nardens, Claudius filius quondam Petri Cardinalis de Nardyns, heirs sive bonatenentes Joannis Gres predicti loci de Bryssonaz (fol. 149v, three small properties).

(The name here transcribed as Gres presented great difficulty. Was it Grest, Grec, Gres, or something else? The script was extremely vague and nowhere distinct. Ultimately, the solution is apparently Gres, by comparison with many examples of such words as tres, plures, conditores, and counter examples such as est and nec, none of which, however, are always written consistently.)

Item, Claudius filium quondam Petri Gres de Brissonaz hominem censerium ipsius prefate nobilia confitentia necnon sexaginta solidos et tres obolos Lausannensium bonorum, unum caponum, et unum bichetum avene ad mensuram Melduni census eidem nobili confitente debita anno quolibet termino predicto festi Sancti Martini Hyemalis per dictum Claudium filium quondam Petri Gres pro et super rebus et possessionibus sequentibus sitas et jacentibus tam in villa, territorio, et fenagio de Bryssonaz quam Deis Nardans (the script is quite strange here, almost as if the word was written Nardays – the glyph might have arisen as a correction after leaving out the second n, in which case the n has become just a minim and a very long descender), que fuerunt de bonis suis paternis, et quas ab eodem nobili confitente ad censum annum er perpetuum tenet ipse Claudius sub predicto censu,

170 ... Claudii douz Tey a borea. (The censier at this point is Claudius douz Tey, see below, fol. 170v, but is this Claudius antenatus or Claudius junior ? As there was already a section for one of them, see above, fol. 151, some of his neighboring properties being held by Claudius junior, this one is likely Claudius junior.)

Et primo, pro duabus partibus unius pose terre site loco dicto en Orgyvaulx juxta terram dicti Claudii douz Tey que fuit Claudii Murisat ab occidente, ab occidente, mareschum dictarum Cabanarum ab occidente, affrontat terre Petri et Roleti de Tecto a borea, et itineri publico a vento. (This description seems defective, possibly the second ab is simply a repeat of the previous words that should be suppressed, and one of the remaining two occidentes needs to be changed to oriente.)

171 Item, en Lousiny ? pro una posa et quarta parte alterius posa terre juxta terram dicti Claudii douz Tey que fuit Claudii Murisat ab occidente, terram Petri de Mont que fuit Humberti Agueux ? (might this name be interpreted as Humbertus à Guex ?) ab oriente, terram Mermeti Bellaz a borea, et terram Ludovici Costel alias Bellaz a vento. (In hand of this scribe, there seems to be a subtle difference between n and u, quite noticeable in some words, completely absent in others. The lieu-dit here appears to be Lousiny in the Latin text, but rendered in a completely ambiguous script in the later marginal labels, conceivably Lonsiny.)

Item, duos denarios Lausannensium bonorum census eidem nobili confitenti annualiter termino supradicto festi Sancti Andree Apostoli debitos per Mermetum filium quondam Anthonii Costel alias Bellaz dicti loci de Cabanis supra Meldunum pro et super dimidia posa terre sita in territorio predicti loci de Cabanis loci dicto ouz Ferrajoz que fuit de bonis Claudii Girod juxta terram Nicodi, Claudii, et Rodulphi Veiriz ab occidente, terram Claudii douz Tey que fuit Claudii Murisat ab oriente, et terram Francesie relicte Joannis de Mont a borea et vento.

Item, unum denarium Lausannesium bonorum (written out in full, clearly plural and not agreeing in number with unum denarium; however, this example shows a preference for the use of the genitive case instead of the seemingly more logical accusative case in this context, a preference that is rarely so clear, as other scribes habitually abbreviated the grammatical forms of Lausanne in such a way as to leave the ending completely uncertain) et terciam partem unius quarteroni frumenti ad mensuram Melduni census dicto nobili confitenti anno quolibet termino predicto debitum per dictum Mermetum de Costel pro et super dimidia posa terre sita in territorio predicti loci de Cabanis loco dicto en la Tormaz (and clearly written La Tormaz in the margin – and here, the preposition does not seem to be understood as part of the toponym by the author of these marginalia) juxta terram Nicodi Very a vento, terram Petri et Roleti de Tecto a borea et oriente, et iter publicum douz Durel ab occidente.

172 Item, unum denarium Lausannensium bonorum census dicto nobili confitenti anno quolibet termino predicto par dictum Mermeti de Costel debitum pro et super duabus posis terre sitas in dicto territorio de Cabanis loco dicto en Lestorchiez que fuerunt de bonis Mermeti Dimierez juxta terram Ludovici de Costel alias Bellaz ab oriente et occidente, rivum de Lestorchiez a vento, et iter tendens de Cabanis apud Montet a borea.

Item, tres denarios Lausannensium bonorum census prefati nobili confitenti annis singulis termino suprascripto debitos per Petrum Demont sutorem et burgensem Melduni pro et super una posa terre sita in dicto territorio de Cabanis que fuit de bonis Uldrici Moctaz loco dicto es Lonsiny (marginal notation flagging the place name looks like Lonsiny) juxta terram Jonannis de Costel alias Belaz ab occidente, terram Mermeti de Costel alias Belaz ab oriente et borea, et terram Rodulphi et Claudii Very a vento.
